THE AUDITORIUM.

The stage crew of the Auditorium are busy installing the new $500 drop curtain, and if possible it will be in position today. This curtain is made of asbestos throughout, and is absolutely fireproof. As the drop weighs over $00 pounds, special apparatus for handling it is being installed, so that it may be moved quickly.

A well balanced vaudeville programme has been booked for the first three days, in which comedy predominates.

Did you see Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde at Friday; of you didn't you missed he best film of the season. Monday's hotoplays will be headed by an Implim entitled Fortune's Wheels, a powerful dramatic every presented by the est actors in America. The Tanhouser company will be well represented by The City of Her Dreams, an experionally well produced picture, presented in the best possible manner by its popular firm. There will be two medies, Bill as a Lover, and Blobbs of Search of the Black Hand, and both them are riots of mirth.

"The Three of Us."

This afternoon the Poli Players will offer for the first time in this city Rachel Crothers' domestic drama of the west, "The Three of Ua." All lades attending the matines today will receive handsome motto card souvenirs autographed by Miss Montgomery, leading woman of the company. "The Three of Us" has never been presented einewhere at the low scale of prices charged at Poll's, and should be a dramatic treat to local play-goers. Wednesday afternoon souvenirs of Miss Hayner will be presented to the ladies, and on Thursday night exceptionally handsome souvenirs have been arranged for the ladies on account of the 150th performance of the stock company. Next week the play will be "In the Bishop's Carriage."

BREED THEATER.

The Little Circus Rider, the feature picture of the Breed today, is a distinct and attractive novelty in this city. It tells a forceful story of two rustic lovers, who attend the circus, which is visiting their town. The girl, aspiring for broader fields, secures a position with the white-topped city, and her lover, hearing of it, also secures a position, being engaged as hostler. One day, while the girl is riding in the rings she falls from the horse, and is furriedly carried from the ring, the only sympathizing person being her old-time lover, now the hostler. She is brought to realize that with all, the glamour, there is little real sincerity, and recognizes in her old friend the true principles of manhood that make their future happiness
